Outstanding Educator Award

Dr. Nick Basinger, University of Georgia

Dr Basinger is an Associate Professor of Weed Science at the University of Georgia in the Department of Crop and Soil Science. Dr. Basinger received his Masters and Ph.D. from North Carolina State University where he studied the impacts of weed interference on biomass accumulation of weed and crop species as well as the impacts on crop yield of several annual and perennial horticultural crops under the direction of Drs. Katie Jennings and David Monks. At the University of Georgia Dr. Basinger has 55% research, 40% teaching, and 5% service appointments in the Department of Crop and Soil Sciences. His work focuses on altering and manipulating agroecosystems to minimize the effects of weeds. He is devoted to Integrated Weed Management (IWM) as a means to manage weeds, minimize the potential for herbicide resistance, and improve the productivity of desirable crops in crop and forage systems.

Since his appointment to the University, he has been teaching undergraduate- and graduate-level courses. He teaches across all three UGA campuses, through distance education with students on these campuses, and across the state of Georgia. He teaches Weed Science (CRSS 4340/6340-CRSS 4340L/6340L), Herbicide Technology (CRSS 6350), and Experiential Weed Science Contest Preparation (CRSS 6360). He has been the UGA weed team coach since 2019 and continues to work to encourage students to view weed science through an integrated lens. His approach to teaching is one where students learn to think critically, and as a result, act thoughtfully. Providing students with hands-on applications of content discussed in class lectures allows them to see a more complete picture of the concept than any lecture can provide. In his own experience, these opportunities provide “teachable moments” that force students to troubleshoot issues and see the impacts of their actions.

In addition to teaching courses, he is currently the Director and Coordinator of the Masters of Plant Protection and Pest Management (MPPPM) program at UGA. This program is a terminal master's program where students focus on the plant protection disciplines in preparation for extension or industry job placements. He has been a member of SWSS since the beginning of his Masters degree in 2012, has served as the chair for the Outstanding Graduate Student Award for the WSSA and SWSS, and has served as a judge for student oral and poster contests since 2019. He looks forward to expanding his service to the SWSS as a Member at Large representative from academia.

Outstanding Young Weed Scientist-Academia

Dr. Vijay Singh, Virginia Tech

Dr. Vijay Singh is an Assistant Professor and Extension Weed Specialist in the School of Plant and Environmental Sciences at Eastern Shore Agricultural Research and Extension Center, Virginia Tech. He received his BS and MS from the CCS Haryana Agricultural University, India. Dr. Singh began his weed science career as a Research Scientist with International Rice Research Institute. Later, he moved to the US and obtained his PhD in weed science from the University of Arkansas and gained postdoctoral experience at Texas A&M University. Currently, he provides expertise on weed research and extension in row-crops (corn, soybean, cotton), small grains, and vegetables. He is also working on digital agriculture and data driven technologies under Virginia Tech's Smart Farming Initiative. Dr. Singh has authored/ co-authored 44 journal articles and book chapters, 38 extension publications/ newsletters, 1 book, and 109 abstracts in conference proceedings. He has delivered 125 presentations at professional meetings and conferences and has given keynotes and invited talks on several occasions. Dr. Singh organized or contributed to around 20 extension events annually, which were attended by more than 10,000 stakeholders in the past 5 years. As a PI/co-PI he secured $9.5 million worth of grants, where his program received $2.1 million in competitive funds. Dr. Singh graduated 2 students, currently advising 4 (2 PhDs and 2 MS), served on student committees, and mentored several undergraduate students. Dr. Singh's students have won numerous awards and scholarships, including positions in the weed contest, and society's outstanding student award. Along with Southern Weed Science Society (SWSS), Dr. Singh served on the executive committees of 2 more societies; Northeastern Weed Science Society (NEWSS) and Weed Science Society of America (WSSA). He judged students' oral and poster contests, and served as section chair at SWSS, NEWSS, WSSA, and American Society of Agronomy (ASA) annual meetings. Dr. Singh is serving as an associate editor of Agronomy Journal (ASA) and Frontiers in Agronomy, a reviewer for many other journals, and edited/reviewed more than 130 journal articles. Previously, he received awards recognizing his contribution to weed science including Outstanding Researcher Award 2024 (NEWSS), and Outstanding Reviewer Award 2024 (Weed Technology; WSSA). He hopes to continue to serve weed science societies in the future as well.

Outstanding Graduate Student Award (MS)

Megan Singletary, Texas Tech University

Megan Singletary of Mission, TX, graduated from Texas A&M University in 2018 with a B.S. in Animal Science and a minor in Agronomy. Her interest in crop production and research grew substantially after participating in a summer internship with Wonderful Citrus in Edinburg, TX. After her bachelor's degree, Megan participated in a 6-month Co-Op with Corteva AgriScience as a sorghum breeding assistant in Weslaco, TX. She worked as the southern California and Baja California assistant strawberry breeder at Driscoll's in Oxnard, CA from 2018 to 2020. Her work with host-resistance to powdery mildew and two-spotted spider mite created an appreciation for the role of pest management, which led her to pursue her M.S. in Plant and Soil Science from Texas Tech University under the direction of Dr. Peter Dotray. Her thesis research focused on the evaluation of weed control and crop tolerance in AxantFlex cotton, a new quadruple-stack herbicide tolerant technology developed by BASF Corporation. Results from her thesis will assist producers on how best to adapt their weed management practices in light of a new cotton germplasm. As a Master of Science graduate student, Megan presented 13 abstracts/proceedings at scientific conferences and received 8 awards. She was a member of the 2022 SWSS contest first place team sprayer calibration and served on the SWSS graduate student organization board as Social Media Chair, Vice-President, and now President. Megan has authored one peer-reviewed journal publication from her thesis research and has an additional paper in review. She has presented or co-presented at 16 grower meetings. Megan is currently pursuing a PhD degree in Plant and Soil Science with an emphasis in Crop Protection at Texas Tech University.

Outstanding Graduate Student Award (PhD)

Dr. Mason Castner, University of Arkansas

Mason received a B.S. in Plant and Soil Sciences from Oklahoma State University in 2017. During his time at OSU, Mason gained valuable experience during his two summers as an intern for Syngenta and two summers with Farr Agriculture Consulting in Crawfordsville, AR. His time in Arkansas led him to continue his education at the University of Arkansas under the direction of Dr. Jason Norsworthy where he obtained his M.S. and Ph.D. in Crop, Soil, and Environmental Sciences with a concentration in Weed Science in 2020 and 2024, respectively. Mason's dissertation focused the novel herbicide tetflupyrolimet and specifically answering key questions for producers in the Midsouth prior to commercialization of the herbicide for use in rice. His research addressed weed spectrum and efficacy in both paddy and furrow-irrigated rice, rice tolerance, off-target movement, dissipation in soil and risk of carryover, resistance screenings, soil moisture, and a ¹⁴C component.

During his time at the University of Arkansas, Mason authored or co-authored 6 peer-reviewed papers in academic journals, 11 extension or technical reports, and 87 abstracts from scientific presentations at national and regional conferences. Mason was recognized as the Crop, Soil, and Environmental Sciences Outstanding M.S. Student, the Dale Bumpers Distinguished M.S. Scholar, Ron and Alice Talbert Endowed Weed Science Scholar, Gerald O. Mott Meritorious Graduate Student in Crop Science and was a Doctoral Academy Fellowship recipient. He also had the privilege of being selected for SWSS Endowment Enrichment scholarship in 2023.

Mason has received 18 oral and 5 poster contest awards from research presentations at the annual meetings of the Southern Weed Science Society, Weed Science Society of America, Arkansas Crop Protection Association, Beltwide Cotton Conference, and the Rice Technical Working Group. Mason was also actively involved in the Southern Weed Science Society, where he served as Vice President and President of the SWSS Graduate Student Organization from 2022-2024. He was a member of the first place University of Arkansas SWSS Weed Team in 2022 and 2023 and finished as the second and third place individual in these contests, respectively. Mason is forever grateful for the opportunity to participate and develop as a young weed scientist in the SWSS and would strongly encourage other students to become involved as they further their education.

Fellow Award

Dr. John Richburg – Corteva

John Richburg is an Integrated Field Scientist for AL and GA with Corteva agriscience. He is a native of Grove Hill, Alabama where his first agriculture experiences were on the family's cattle farm. He received his B.S. from Auburn University in Agronomy and Soils in 1988 and a M.S. under Dr. Harold Walker at Auburn in Weed Science in 1991. He completed his Ph.D. in Weed Science under the direction of the late Dr. John Wilcut at the University of Georgia in 1994. John began his professional career with Dow AgroSciences in 1994 as a Weed Scientist at the company's Greenville, MS Field Station with emphasis on rice, soybeans and cotton. In 1999 he relocated to Dow AgroSciences's global headquarters in Indianapolis, IN as the lead biologist in Herbicide Discovery for rice herbicides. He held several other Discovery and Field R&D roles before relocating back to Greenville, MS in 2003 as the Field Station Leader. In early 2009 he transitioned into a regional manager role for Field Development R&D then in 2010 to his current role. Throughout his career, he has helped develop products including Strongarm for peanuts, Clincher, Grasp, GraspXtra and RebelEX for rice and WideStrike/WideStrike3 insect protection in cotton. He was instrumental in the development of Enlist Cotton and the Enlist Weed Control System as well as several new insecticide, fungicide and nematicide products. He has authored or co-authored 27 refereed journal articles, 190+ abstracts, hundreds of internal project summary milestone reports and 6 patents. John has been involved with SWSS since 1989 serving in various roles including judge for the weed contest, judge for the student paper contest, Chairman of the Student Awards Committee, the Finance Committee, Chairman of the Sustaining Members Committee and previously as an Industry Rep on the SWSS Board. He is active in numerous other professional organizations and served as MWSS President 2007-2008.
